Blackjack

In Blackjack, you win if you get a higher hand than the dealer without going over 21. Should you go over 21 (Bust), you lose immediately. Face cards count as 10, Aces are either 1 or 11 and all other cards are face value.

The players and the dealer each get two cards. If your first two cards total, for example, 15, you can "Stand" (take no additional cards) or you can "Hit" (ask for additional cards, one at a time). You indicate your decision to hit or stand by using hand gestures. The dealer will be happy to show you how. After each player in turn has taken all the extra cards he wants, the dealer exposes his "Hole" card and hits with 16 or less, and stands on 17. Should the dealer go over 21, you win.

BLACKJACK

An ace and a 10-value card is "Blackjack" and pays you 3 dollars for every 2 you bet, unless the dealer, too, has a Blackjack, in which case you "Push" (neither win nor lose).

SPLITTING PAIRS

You can split pairs and play them as two separate hands by placing another equal bet on the table. You can split up to three times for a total of four separate hands. If you split Aces, you are limited to a one-card draw on each hand, and if you draw a ten-value card, it will count as 21 but not as Blackjack.

DOUBLING DOWN

You can double your bet and take just one additional card. You can double any combination of your first two cards and you can double after you split pairs.

INSURANCE

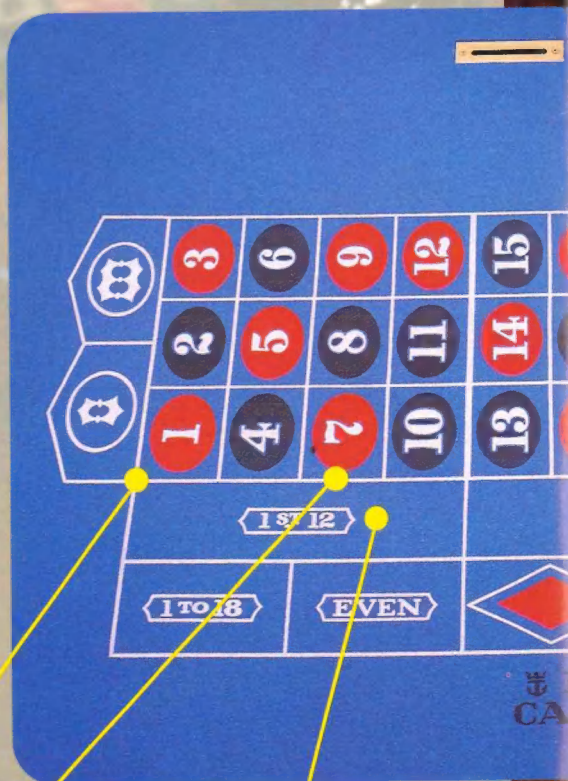

If the dealer's "up" card is an Ace, you can place an "Insurance" bet of up to half your original bet. If the dealer has Blackjack, your insurance bet pays 2 to 1. If you have Blackjack and take insurance, you are immediately offered "even money".

Roulette

Long played by the European aristocracy in Monte Carlo, roulette is quite simple to play and enjoy.

You can bet on red or black, even or odd, and on any number or combination of numbers. Winners are paid after each spin, and a new game begins.

BETS ON ROLLS AFTER THE POINT HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

COME LINE

Treats the next roll exactly like a Pass Line bet on the Come Out Roll.

FIELD BETS

This is a one-roll bet that you can make at any time. If 2, 3, 4, 9, 10, 11 or 12 is rolled, you win, and if any other number is rolled, you lose.

DON'T COME

Treats the next roll exactly like a Don't Pass Line bet on the Come Out Roll.

PLACE BETS

You can place a bet on an individual number and increase, decrease or remove it at any time. You win if the number you select is rolled before a seven is thrown. These bets are never in effect on the Come Out Roll.

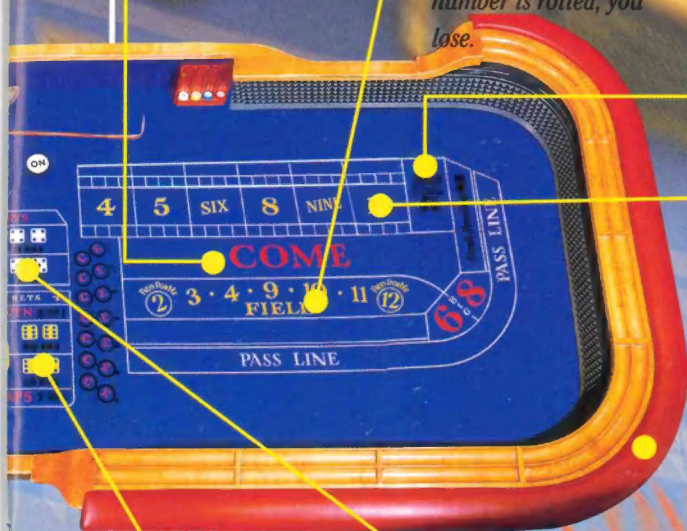

ONE-ROLL BETS

On any roll you can bet that a 2 Craps, 3 Craps, 7, 11, 12 Craps, or Any Craps are rolled.

When it becomes your turn to be the shooter, you can either take your turn or pass the dice to the next shooter.

HARDWAY BETS

You can bet that the shooter will roll a 4, 6, 8 or 10 the "hard way"; that is, with a pair of 2's, 3's, 4's or 5's. If a seven is rolled, or if the number bet on is rolled, but not rolled the hard way, the bet loses.

Caribbean Stud Poker

This is essentially a simplified five card stud poker game. You put up your ante and are dealt five cards. When you've looked at our hand, if you choose to play, you must bet double your ante. (If you fold you lose your ante.)

The dealer then exposes his cards. If the dealer does not have Ace/King or higher, you win even money for your ante. If the dealer has at least Ace/King and his hand is higher than yours, he collects your ante and your bet. If your hand beats the dealer's, you win even money on your ante and you win odds on your bet, as follows:
